ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for and method of parsing the plurality of input parameters received from a user terminal into an ordered ASCII string of predefined format. This permits the user to receive nearly realtime responses to service requests requiring a plurality of ordered input parameters. This is accomplished when the Active Server Page (ASP) module calls the WebParse.dll module for parsing. Thus, the service request is honoring in near realtime.